

TREND TRACKERS

L to R: Christopher Kennedy, Palm Springs, CA; Drew McGukin, New York, NY; Theresa Casey, Toronto, Ontario; Steffany Hollingsworth, Santa Fe, NM; Denise McGaha, Dallas, TX; Cheryl Kees Clendenon, Pensacola, FL.

TRENDSPOTTING: What's Hot in Design

A group of designers teams with Silestone to track trends across the country

From coast to coast, and from season to season, trends ebb and flow and are effected by everything from the fashion runways to the political scene. To keep close watch on the happenings in regions across the U.S., surfaces company Cosentino teamed with a group of designers from varying cities to gain insight into design trends and to develop new colors for its Silestone line of quartz surfaces.

Continued on page 36

Continued from page 34

Here, the Silestone Trendspotters chime in on what's hot in the interiors they're seeing and designing this season.

Denise McGaha
Denise McGaha Interiors
Dallas, TX

Q: What trend has caught your eye for incorporating bold hues into a kitchen or bath palette?

A: "I'm so pleased to see appliance vendors offering colors that veer away from 'safe.' A statement kitchen can start with tile, countertops, cabinets or paint, but when appliances enter the equation, that's when truly bold designs emerge."

Bright appliances make a kitchen by Denise McGaha pop.